

Manuscript Submission Details

Type:
Title:
Authors:
Keywords:
Abstract:
Classification:
Comments:
Funding:
Submission Date:	2025-06-23 14:38:42

DAWN FM

It would just take us to the neverending wormhole if we stretch it too long. Thus we come directly to the point where I believe I was created, when I got my eyes, the sense of things and the awareness of the present. It was the verge when I created someone, through my eyes, vision, creativity and of course a pinch of influence from the external world. Although this is everchanging, always influenced, always twisted and bent by the fabric of time and circumstances which I later realized, for nothing is constant. Everything we feel, love and care for are going to evaporate one day and transformed into something very unimaginable.

I had a dream and I somewhat entangled my entire personality into that, trying to make every possible changes I could make in order to give that dream a framework and make it come to life.

DAWN FM

It would just take us to the neverending wormhole if we stretch it too long. Thus we come directly to the point where I believe I was created, when I got my eyes, the sense of things and the awareness of the present. It was the verge when I created someone, through my eyes, vision, creativity and of course a pinch of influence from the external world. Although this is everchanging, always influenced, always twisted and bent by the fabric of time and circumstances which I later realized, for nothing is constant. Everything we feel, love and care for are going to evaporate one day and transformed into something very unimaginable.

I had a dream and I somewhat entangled my entire personality into that, trying to make every possible changes I could make in order to give that dream a framework and make it come to life.

DAWN FM

It would just take us to the neverending wormhole if we stretch it too long. Thus we come directly to the point where I believe I was created, when I got my eyes, the sense of things and the awareness of the present. It was the verge when I created someone, through my eyes, vision, creativity and of course a pinch of influence from the external world. Although this is everchanging, always influenced, always twisted and bent by the fabric of time and circumstances which I later realized, for nothing is constant. Everything we feel, love and care for are going to evaporate one day and transformed into something very unimaginable.

I had a dream and I somewhat entangled my entire personality into that, trying to make every possible changes I could make in order to give that dream a framework and make it come to life.